4 More Jap Cities Hit by Fire Bombs

GUAM, Tuesday, July 17 (AP)—Between 450 and 500 Superfortresses in a predawn attack today showered fire bombs on four Japanese cities over a 460-mile stretch. The targets ranged from Oita on the northeast coast of Kyushu to Hiratsuka, 34 miles southwest of Tokyo.

PIE-FACED CHAMPIONS—Eat hearty lads . . . and fast, is the order of the day for (l. to r.) Sgt. Edward Beckham, Waxahatchie, Texas, CG Robert Cecik, Brooklyn, N. Y., and T-Sgt. Emanuel Rempelakis, Sunset st., Rosbury, as they participate in a pie-eating contest aboard a coast guard-manned troop transport enroute from Europe.

More than 2500 tons of incendiaries were dropped on the four cities in the raid, which was the 53d fire bomb mission carried out from Mariana bases.

The other two cities hit were Kuwana, 12 miles southwest of Nagoya, and Numazu, 25 miles southeast of famed Mt. Fuji.

It marked the first raid carried out under the newly organized command of the United States Strategic Air Forces under Gen. Carl A. Spaatz. Spaatz is expected here soon from Washington to take direct command.

Kuwana, a city of 42,000, is actually a part of the big Nagoya war production center and supplies antifriction bearings, aircraft parts, electric equipment, machine tools and special steels for the Japanese war machine.

Numazu, with a population of 55,000, has several ordnance and armament plants, numerous small textile mills and electrical machine plants.

Hiratsuka, 43,000 population, is an important aircraft and armaments center as well as a focal point for naval activities, including an arsenal, armament repair shops and a center for air technical research and development.

It is an urban area of slightly less than a square mile with its most congested section forming an oblong pattern of about one-third square mile.

Oita is the most important Kyushu city on the inland sea. Its naval air depot supplies airfields at Oita, Saiki and Usa.

Its rail yard and shops constitute the most important repair facilities between Kokura and Miyakonojo, on Kyushu's east coast. Its population of 76,000 is closely confined with a density of 26,000 to the square mile.

Jap PWs Tell Of Peace Move

By GEORGE McWILLIAMS

OKINAWA (delayed) (INS)—Jap newspapermen, captured by American troops when Okinawa's capital city, Naha, was seized, asserted that there is a definite peace movement in Japan.

These civilian prisoners, volunteering information to American interrogators, said Japan probably would agree to surrender if only a token force were sent to the Jap homeland for occupation forces.

American military men warned that due caution must be exercised in accepting these statements.

The Okinawa newsmen captured, editor of the Okinawa Shimpou, and a representative of Domei, declared there had been a strong peace party in the Japanese Diet since February and that the party rebelled against prolonged domination of government administration by the military clique.

The newspapermen said it was proposed that Britain would be the best intermediary in seeking a favorable peace from the United States, since Britain had been in the war longer and was the weakest of the Allies.

A proposal of some sort actually was made, they said, with negotiations actually undertaken.

They believe, however, that the stumbling block was the question of how strong an army of occupation would be sent to Japan by the United States.

The newsmen said Japan would surrender only if America would send in a small occupational force. This information, they added, was little known outside the Jap high command.

Two months before Suzuki's cabinet was formed, said the enemy journalists, two major parties became strong in the Diet, both planning to convince the world that Japan no longer was under the control of the Army-Navy clique.

Japs Told War Leaders' Course Forcing Defeat

SAN FRANCISCO, July 16 (AP)—Japan will be compelled to surrender, a Domei News Agency dispatch said today, unless the war leaders take a realistic view of the "world situation" and abandon hopes of victory through a split among the United Nations.

The dispatch, quoting the Tokyo newspaper Yomiuri Hoichi, called such hopes "political superstition," adding they were similar to Germany's "fatal blunder" of plunging into a two-front war.

Another Domei dispatch again questioned President Truman's assurance that unconditional surrender would not mean the extinction and enslavement of the Japanese people, and the Nippon Times said "the effacement of Shintoism means the effacement of the Japanese race and that is what Americans like Adm. Halsey are threatening."

Truman Tours Berlin Ruins As Parley Awaits Stalin

By DANIEL DE LUCE AND ERNEST B. VACARRO

POTSDAM, July 16 (AP)—President Truman talked with Prime Minister Churchill and toured the wrecked heart of Berlin today preliminary to the first Big Three meeting, at which the war with Japan will be a leading topic.

HIT JAPS HARD—R. Adm. J. F. Shafroth, who is the tactical commandant of the bombardment group—including three of our newest and fastest battlewagons—which levelled the city of Kamaishi, only 275 miles north of Tokyo, in the most sensational smash of the war.

Mr. Truman had an opportunity to see Hitler's ruined and looted chancellery, the battle-scarred Reichstag and the wreckage of Tiergarten.

Soviet spokesmen said they had no word that Premier Stalin and Foreign Minister Molotov had arrived in Potsdam, but added: "They will be here in time for the opening of the conference." The opening sessions, originally expected today, apparently had been delayed until tomorrow.

Stalin and Molotov generally were believed to be in Potsdam. Churchill, chewing dourly on a cigar, inspected the Reich chancellery during the afternoon and asked his Russian escort how the Nazis there had died.

The President slipped out of Potsdam for two hours for his tour. He inspected the U. S. Second Armored (Hell on Wheels) Division along one of the super-highways Hitler built. This division is an American occupation force in Berlin.

Prime Minister Churchill called on Mr. Truman for their first meeting since President Roosevelt's death, but this was described as simply a courtesy call. Stopping outside Hitler's chancellery, the President shook his head at the destruction and told reporters:

"It is a terrible thing, but they brought it on themselves."

President Truman, an artillery captain in the last war, presented a citation to Company E of the 17th Armored Engineering Battalion, which crossed the Rhine under fire, and commented:

"I am only sorry that I didn't get a chance to participate in some phase of this war myself."

He made the award from a half-track personnel carrier in which he stood with Secretary Byrnes, Admiral Leahy, and his military and naval aides. He wore a blue suit and the familiar gray hat.

He inspected the Second Armored Division in company of its Commander, Brig. Gen. John H. Collier. Then his wide tour of Berlin carried into some sections of the Russian occupational zone.

Passing through the Brandenburg Gate, he was saluted by Col. Gen. Alexander Gorbatov, Commander of Berlin, and by his deputy, Maj. Gen. Nikolai Barinov.

The presidential car was accompanied by a small secret service party and a detail of Army riflemen.

Maj. Gen. Floyd L. Parks, U. S. member of the Berlin Kommandatur, directed the party through streets of ruined buildings to the Kaiserdam, Bismarckstrasse, Berlinerstrasse, through the Tiergarten, the Grosses Tier Monument, Unter den Linden.

The President saw breadlines amid crumbling buildings, including wreckage of the Reichstag and debris which is all that remains of the famous Adlon Hotel, and pictures of himself among the big three along a road in the Russian section.

Berliners walking the streets or riding bicycles paid little attention to the procession.

The Second Division Band played the "Star-Spangled Banner" as President Truman arrived for the divisional inspection. Baring is gray head to the hot sun, he acknowledged the salutes of the soldiers.

Heavy and medium tanks, tank destroyers and other weapons extended two miles down the highway.

Presented in turn with the emblem of the 17th Armored Engineering Battalion, the President said: "I'll take it to the White House and keep it in my office."

Port Bill Passed, Goes to Tobin

By an unanimous 30-0 rollcall vote, the Senate today approved the $5,000,000 bond issue to finance early steps of the Boston Port Authority's program for modernization of Boston shipping facilities.

The measure was sent immediately to Gov. Tobin to be signed into law. The Governor's office staff announced he would affix his signature to the document at noon Tuesday.

The measure now goes to Gov. Tobin to be signed into law. This was expected late this afternoon.

The legislature's action drew quick comment from leaders in the campaign for the plan to modernize and develop Boston's harbor facilities.

Said Chairman Ralph E. Flanders of the Massachusetts committee for port development:

"Passage of the port authority bill marks a long step forward in the task of promoting the future prosperity of the city and state."

Thomas A. Pappas, a member of the present port authority which will pass out of existence with the advent of the new agency, said the measure gave "Massachusetts a great opportunity for a fresh start toward making the most out of its greatest natural resource."

Jay E. Benton, chairman of the Greater Boston development committee, said enactment of the bill was "the first step in a real rejuvenation of Boston, Massachusetts and New England."

Chiropractor Bill Deadline Nears

As the deadline hour for his veto or signature neared, Gov. Tobin refused to comment today on what action he would take concerning the bill to legalize the practice of chiropractors in Massachusetts.

If the governor does not veto the measure before tomorrow, it will automatically become law. It was passed five days ago.

Tobin said he had listened to opposition to the bill from the Massachusetts Medical Society and to the bill's proponents.

Under the proposed law there would be a board of examiners drawn from the ranks of the chiropractors, as contrasted with the state board of registration in medicine, before which osteopaths must go for examination to get certificates permitting them to practice.

A Real Chiller-Diller

A dutiful Charlestown telephone operator called the City sq. police station today when she noticed an instrument was off the hook in a Chestnut st. home.

"I can hear some awful loud talking there," she reported.

Petrolman Frank Higgins and Duane MacKillop sped to the address, the home of Mrs. Hannah Mahoney. They didn't bother to knock.

Mrs. Mahoney, sitting calmly by her radio, regaling herself with some dramatic dialogue, was startled when the two policemen ran in. One asked, "What's the matter here?"

"Nothing—until now," said Mrs. Mahoney.

They explained, Mrs. Mahoney admitted there had been a little loud talking over her radio program and readjusted her telephone set.

The police retired, she returned to her program, and the neighbors went back to their own affairs.

3 A. M. Wanderers Worried Over Mom

The Boston Police Department had two determined and altogether admirable problems on its hands today in the persons of 11-year-old Richard Mulvey and his sister, Margaret, 9, newly here from Providence.

The small Mulveys landed in protective custody at the Warren ave. station after two unsuccessful attempts, one at 3 a. m., to visit their mother, Mrs. Alice Mulvey, at City Hospital. She was stricken with an abdominal ailment last night.

Her little son and daughter were walking hand in hand through Copley sq. at 3 o'clock this morning when police found them.

Richard explained they had been walking for an hour, trying to find City Hospital. They had come here Friday with their mother, Mrs. Alice Mulvey of Trenton st., Providence, "because she wanted to get a job," Richard explained.

"But they took her to the hospital and we are going to see her," Margaret volunteered.

They were going to live in Beacon st. later, said Richard, but right now they were staying with a friend, Mrs. Alice Grant of Chandler st., South End, and which was the way to the hospital?

The police explained—and not without regret — that the two staunch tykes could not see their mother at 3 a. m. It was something about hospital rules and visiting hours, they added.

It didn't seem to make sense to Richard and he tried to talk the police out of their notion. "We won't stay long," added his sister, "and we won't wake up anyone. We didn't even wake up

Mrs. Grant when we got out of bed."

It was no go. The children were taken to the home of Mrs. Grant. She telephoned to one of their relations in New Bedford. While her back was turned the brother and sister slipped out and made their way to City Hospital.

Hospital officials had to refuse them permission to see their mother because they were not old enough to qualify as visitors. The police were called. The little Mulveys were taken away, bewildered at the insistence of strange adults that they should not see their mother.

Police are trying to contact relatives of the family in Providence as well as New Bedford.

Hunt Pilotless B29 In Mid-West Wilds

GRAND RAPIDS, Minn., July 16 (AP)—A pilotless B-29 was being sought in Minnesota, the Dakotas and Montana today after its crew of 11 was forced to bail out over the thickly wooded lake country of northern Minnesota to avoid asphyxiation.

Lt. Edward J. Szycher of Bayonne, N. J., the pilot, last man to leave the plane, said the ship was flying at 9500 feet when he gave the order to jump and he believed it carried enough gasoline to fly it to Montana under automatic pilot control.

However, he said, the plane was filled with gasoline fumes from a leaking line and it was possible the ship exploded and fell into the woods or a lake.

The ship was on a round robin flight from Pyote, Tex., to Duluth, Minn., to Wolf Point, Mont., and back to Pyote when the crew abandoned ship Sunday shortly after midnight.

Lt. Szycher said every effort was made to stay with the ship, until some of the crew were overcome. Szycher, last man to jump, buckled a parachute on Lt. Keith Hudson of Highpoint, N. C., and threw him out of the plane. Hudson, unconscious, was revived by the rush of air.

Forest rangers found the crew over an area of about 30 miles. One had fallen into Napoleon lake and swam to shore. All were suffering from the effects of the fumes, but none had serious injuries except Lt. Hudson, whose back was hurt. Among those in the crew were Lt. Dopkin, instructor-navigator, of Rhode Island and S-Sgt. Roberts, radio-navigator, of Massachusetts.

Report Charter To Senate

WASHINGTON, July 16 (AP)—The Foreign Relations Committee formally reported the United Nations charter to the Senate today. It expressed the opinion that this country will be "repaid many times" for its projected contributions to a world peace-keeping organization.

In a favorable report on the document which it approved by a 21 to 1 vote last week, the committee said it had no hesitation in recommending Senate ratification because it believes the 50-nation agreement "in accordance with our national interests."

Shangri-La Diary

She's blonde. She's cute.

She's the No. 1 adventure girl in World War II.

That's WAC Cpl. Margaret Hastings, whose spine-tingling rescue after 47 days in Hidden Valley, New Guinea, thrilled the world.

Now, the Boston Sunday Advertiser and Boston Evening American bring you "Shangri-La Diary," the first person story of this heroic American girl whose courage, resourcefulness and humor carried her through trials that few could endure.

Too fantastic for fiction, and yet every word of it true, Margaret Hastings' own story will appear exclusively in these papers beginning next Sunday.

She and two soldier companions were the only survivors out of 23 in a transport plane that crashed in the wilds of New Guinea.

They found themselves in a valley cut off by towering cliffs from the outside world, and peopled by a strange tribe of natives who never before had seen a white person.

"Shangri-La Diary" is Margaret Hastings' personal record of those 47 unforgettable days and nights in a land that time forgot.

Regularly she scribbled shorthand notes of each day's events on bits of paper and the backs of old envelopes.

Now, her collection forms the framework for one of the great human interest stories to come out of the war.

Don't miss a single chapter of "Shangri-La Diary," beginning July 22 in the Boston Sunday Advertiser and continuing daily in the Boston Evening American.

2 German Police Confess Killing Captive U. S. Flier

FREISING, Germany, July 16 (AP)—A U. S. Third Army military commission on war crimes said yesterday two German policemen had confessed they killed T-Sgt. Donald Ludwig Hein of the U. S. Eighth Air Force after he parachuted from an exploding bomber over Langenselbold last Dec. 12.

Witnesses said Hein was captured by a gardener and a German soldier and turned over to Police Chief Albert Bury and Policeman Wilhelm Haefner.

Bury testified higher authorities had instructed him that Allied fliers guilty of "error attacks" should not be treated as prisoners of war, but must be shot.

Baby in El Train Struck by Rock

Struck on the head by a rock thrown through the window of an elevated train near Egleston Sq. station, two-year-old Charles Gillis of Leland st., Jamaica Plain was treated today in City Hospital for a lacerated scalp and released.

Riding with his mother, Mrs. Margaret Gillis when struck, the child was removed from the train at Northampton st. and taken to the hospital by police.

Mrs. Mary Leary, 42 of Orchard st., Jamaica Plain received cuts from flying glass.

Police believe a gang of youths are responsible for the accident.

Stoddard was picked up at Washington and Dudley sts., Roxbury.

Gen. Buckner Plea To Home Front Told

"Tell those at home that teamwork is bringing us victory here, and that continued teamwork there is needed until the finish."

These were Gen. Simon Buckner's words a few days before his death, as he bid goodbye at Okinawa to Lt. Col. Jack Hawkins, USMC, the latter revealed here.

Hawkins is one of 10 members of the First Marine Division flown to the United States to speak to war-plant workers, illustrating his talks with "Okinawa" and "Advance Base," Navy incentive films restricted to war plants.

Hawkins, stationed in Shanghai before Pearl Harbor, was in the Philippines at the time of the attack, fought at Bataan and was captured at Corregidor and held prisoner for 11 months.

For seven months he fought with the guerrillas, was finally rescued and flown to the States.

After duty at Quantico, he joined the First Marine Division as assistant operations officer, and will return to the South Pacific after his assignment at New England war plants.

'A' Drivers Get New Tires--If

WASHINGTON, July 16 (AP)—Passenger car owners, including "A" card holders, became eligible today for new tires for bona fide change of address that required a special gasoline ration.

This is the first time since the beginning of tire rationing that any "A" card holders have been eligible for new tires.

"This extension of the eligibility is particularly needed now that increasing numbers of persons are moving from one city to another," OPA said in announcing that:

These persons may apply for new tires if they have a tire failure while making a permanent change of residence, regardless of the type of ration they hold:

1.—War workers moving from one city to another as production shifts from one type of war goods to another and to civilian goods.

2.—Members of the armed forces moving to a new port.

3.—Discharged veterans returning home or moving to another city to accept a job.

Before being eligible to apply, a motorist must have been issued a special gasoline ration for the trip.

"B" and "C" motorists have been eligible for new tires, but not for tires while actually making a change in residence. This is because they had to surrender their supplemental rations in order to receive a special gasoline ration.

Technically, this made them "A" drivers, at least until they could re-establish eligibility for supplemental rations in their new home.

Dracula Man Hunted in London

LONDON, July 16 (AP)—Scotland Yard hunted today for a "Dracula man" who has terrorized northwest London by sneaking into bedrooms by night and gripping women and girls by the throat.

A dozen homes have been entered, the Daily Mail said, but no one has been seriously injured. Several women reported they awoke to find the intruder's face to their throats. One said a string had been drawn tightly around her neck, and another said the man asked for a kiss.

The intruder seems valuable within easy reach. Nobody has been able to give a good description of him because he blinds his victims with a flashlight.

Maj. Stevens and Imogene Back From 2d Honeymoon

NEW CANAAN, Ct., July 16 (INS)—Maj. and Mrs. George A. Stevens, 34, were back from their second honeymoon today, living quietly at home while Mrs. Stevens awaits trial on manslaughter charges in the death of Seaman Albert Kovacs.

The couple, married eight days before Maj. Stevens, shipped overseas, left on a second honeymoon shortly after the paratrooper returned from Germany posted a $15,000 surety bond for her release from jail last week.

The coroner's report charged Mrs. Stevens with having an illicit love affair with a neighbor, Charles Milton.

The Stevens are living at the home of Maj. Stevens' parents and Mrs. Stevens does the shopping, appearing on the streets of said New Canaan, conservatively dressed and wearing dark glasses.

Her trial is scheduled for September.

Court Restores Gallery to Duty

David A. Gallery, Wellesley police sergeant who was removed by the selectmen in January after it was alleged he had fired at Chief William J. Fleming in an attempt to kill him, was ordered reinstated today, without loss of compensation, by Judge Gilbert W. Cox in Dedham district court.

Judge Cox found the selectmen had acted in good faith, but not upon "credible evidence" to support the contention Gallery had been guilty of conduct unbecoming an officer. The jurist also found there had been "considerable hostility" toward Gallery on the part of Chief Fleming.

The gun incident was alleged to have occurred Dec. 23 in the chief's office. Fleming said Gallery fired a bullet which missed him and went through a window. Gallery had complained he was getting a "bum deal" and called him names before shooting, Fleming explained.

Gallery, who asserted his gun had been discharged accidentally, was not arrested until three days later. He was charged with assault with intent to murder. Later he was held for the grand jury on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon. He was indicted on that count but during his trial in Dedham District Court the charge was reduced to simple assault. A jury found him not guilty.

The sergeant and chief had been World War I comrades. At the trial both testified they had left the chief's office arm in arm after the gun was discharged. Last February the chief retired after 16 years because of "a disability in the line of duty," according to an announcement by the selectmen.

Fraternizing Lags

GIs Bashful as Ban Is Lifted

By HOWARD COWAN

EGERN ON THE TEGERNSEE, Bavaria, July 16 (AP)—The major read Gen. Eisenhower's order relaxing the ban on fraternizing.

"Whew!" he said softly. "It's going to be just like Saturday night in Joplin, Mo., with all these GIs and all these frauleins!"

The order, allowing American soldiers to talk to German grown-ups on the streets and in public places, is almost 48 hours old now.

Perhaps it's stage-fright, maybe the boys feel a little sheepish, but the American soldier has scarcely mustered up courage to whistle at a German girl.

A sergeant and two privates, for example, had been screaming loudly against the order that kept them from even talking with Germans, saying it was "cruel and inhuman."

Billeted in a picturesque chalet at this lake resort, they had been exposed daily to scores of bronzed Bavarian and Austrian belles sunbathing.

These three are not fraternizing; they just talk about it.

"It says that 'conversation with adult Germans on the street and in public places' is okay," the sergeant said.

A GI untangled his legs from the front seat.

"Does that mean—?"

"It means just what it says," the sergeant said. "Conversation!"

"Can't you even touch them?" the soldier asked.

The third spoke up.

"What," he asked, "is 'public places'?"

That was as far as they got.

There may be several reasons besides bashfulness. Those who came swashbuckling across France and Belgium, sweeping ladies off their feet, have found that frauleins just do not sweep.

Most of their menfolk are home. Discharged German soldiers by tens of thousands provide escorts for most young women—especially the attractive ones.

And on the authority of the camp's Casanova (jerry camp has one), sour black bread, cheese and sauerkraut do not exactly make for the breath of spring among German girls.

"Anyway, you know," he said, "most Germans haven't had soap for six months."

Man, 2 Women Tell Bridal Woes

Testifying that his wife neither liked the home he built for her nor the town they lived in and, as a result, left him shortly after their marriage in 1930, John A. Fraser, 69, of Gloucester, sought a divorce today in Salem Probate Court.

Fraser declared his wife wanted to live in New York City and left him when he refused to move there.

Mrs. Edith W. O'Connor, 23, of Boston, sought to divorce Arthur C. O'Connor, telling Judge John A. Costello that a week before he entered the Army in 1942 he pushed her into a hot stove and, a week after his discharge in 1944, chased her with an open jackknife.

Although she rescued her husband when she found him in bed with the mattress in flames, a week later he threw a frying pan and a chair at her, Mrs. Marie Rhodes, 33, of Greenwood ter., Swampscott, testified, seeking divorce uncontested from Charles C. Rhodes. He had previously chased her with a carving knife, she said.

'Foolish Moustache' Sported by Chaplin

LOS ANGELES, July 16 (INS)—Comedian Charlie Chaplin appeared in court today for a new phase in his long legal battle with Joan Berry—this time to fight her demands for attorney's fees and support of her child pending appeal of her paternity case.

Many failed to recognize the actor when he arrived in Superior Judge William S. Baid's domestic relations court—Chaplin had grown a moustache especially for a new movie, a satire on "Bluebeard."

For years the comedian depended on his artificial black lip adornment but this time the moustache is real.

He described it as a "foolish moustache," designed to "get a European, continental effect."

Joan also was in court for the hearing, prepared to testify that she was without funds to care for the baby, Carol Ann, now 21-months old. Her attorneys had subpoenaed Chaplin's books and records in an effort to show his wealth and ability to pay.

The hearing was transferred to Superior Judge Clarence L. Kincaid in whose court a jury recently ruled that Chaplin was Carol Ann's father.

Chaplin has filed an appeal from the paternity judgment.

Pvt. C. F. Fee Dies in Action

PFC George F. Fee, Jr., 20, of Pleasant St., Charlestown, son of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Fee, Sr., member of the 83rd "Thunderbolt" division, previously reported missing in action in Germany on Dec. 11, '44, was officially reported killed in action as of that date in a War Department telegram to his parents.

He was an only son, and has three sisters. A pro-burial-mass will be held on Wednesday at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Church, Charlestown.

No Kick Here

CHARLESTOWN, W. Va., July 16 (AP)—Municipal Judge Harold Neff dished out some justice in a hurry today.

Before him was a man accused by his wife of assault. "He kicked me," the plaintiff declared.

"Case dismissed," said Judge Neff, looking down and noting the defendant had but one leg.

Denied Motherhood Wife Gets Freedom

LONDON, July 16 (AP)—The British court of appeal annulled the marriage of a Surrey couple today on the wife's plea that her husband had never permitted her to have a child.

In this first case of its kind in Britain, Mrs. Brenda Lee Cowen was the complainant.

The appeals court reversed divorce court ruling and allowed her plea of nonconsummation. A decree of nullity was granted.

Mrs. Cowen said she was married in 1932 and lived with her husband for a time in Iran, where they had agreed that the danger of child-bearing for a European woman was great and had taken steps to avoid parenthood. They came to England in 1937. Mrs. Cowen testified her husband ignored her pleas she be permitted to have a child.

This led to strained relations and disputes, the wife testified, and to a separation in 1944.

Lord Justice du Parco delivered the court's judgment that the marriage had not been consummated "owing to the wilful refusal of the husband."

Admitting that the matrimonial causes act contained no definition of the word "consummate," the appeals court judges indicated they based their decision on the "generally recognized truth that one of the chief ends of marriage is the procreation of children."

The field in the Boston mayoralty race was cut to 11 today when Chester A. Dolan, Sr., of Parker st., Roxbury, withdrew his candidacy.

Since his papers listed a nominating committee empowered to replace him, the group has until tomorrow at 5 p. m. to name another candidate.

Several other candidates were expected to drop out of the fight before the withdrawal deadline at 5 p. m. Friday.

Tax Groups Hit Hurricane Bills

Payment by the legislature of claims in the hurricane damage cases of 1938 "would make a mockery of justice," Norman MacDonald, director of the Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers Association, declared today. MacDonald, in a memorandum to the legislature, protested against referral to a recess commission of the petitions of seven contractors for payment of $38,537 for hurricane repair under contracts which, he said, had been declared illegal and void by the Superior Court.

He declared the proposals for a further study should be rejected and the bills themselves defeated.

France Could Have Fought On-Gamelin

By GEN. MAURICE-GUSTAVE GAMELIN

Copyright, 1945, by the Associated Press

PARIS, July 16 (AP)—I am going to surprise you, perhaps, in saying this is the first newspaper article I have ever written. I am glad that it is for the United States, land of liberty and excellence.

I am frequently asked such questions as these:

"They say that if you had remained supreme commander you would have continued the fight against the Germans. Was this possible from a military point of view?"

"What parts of France could have been held?"

That question, "What must we do?" presented itself to us at two moments.

The first was May 19, 1940, on the evening of which I was suddenly relieved of my command. The Allied armies retiring from Belgium were being forced back toward the Schelde. We had occupied the Aisne and the canal from the Oise to the Somme in order to cover Paris.

It was then a question of welding our forces in the north with those in the south of the Somme, and of regaining the initiative if possible.

I was commander-in-chief of the ground forces for all theaters of operation. Gen. Georges was commander of our northeastern front. In agreement with the British government and King Leopold, I had delegated to him the authority for the (British) army of Gen. Gort and for the Belgian army, in order to assure a unified command from Switzerland to the North Sea.

It was not my task, therefore, to effect this unification of command.

But to restore the situation in this moment of which I am speaking, I thought it necessary to intervene. Therefore, on the morning of May 19, 1940, I gave the order for a general counter-offensive.

This order was never executed. The Vichy government never allowed this fact to be made public. After the evening of May 19 I was no longer kept informed on the events. On Sept. 6, 1940, I was arrested. On March 4, 1943, I was taken to Germany.

I later learned that Gen. Maxime Weygand, who succeeded me, adopted my plan of action on May 22, 1940, but by that time the situation was profoundly changed. Mass panzer divisions and motorized German infantry had reached the North Sea at the mouth of the Somme and were attacking in the direction of Arras and Boulogne.

It was too late.

It was on May 25 after the Belgian army surrendered, that the High Command should have placed the alternatives before the government—on one hand to resolve to fight to the end; on the other, to be prepared for "retreat into the empire" when the Germans resumed the offensive against the bulk of our forces.

Redoubts which we could have effectively defended for this purpose, provided they had been prepared, appear to me to have been the Cotentin Peninsula, where your troops landed in June of last year; Brittany; the borders of the Mediterranean with the southern part of the Cevennes and the lower Alps; and, finally, the left bank of the Garonne, to protect Bayonne.

In occupying these positions we would have protected ports from which embarkation could have been made not only for North Africa but for England.

We would thus have gained time for organizing the defense of Great Britain, and especially of North Africa.

Long Memories Trap 2 Suspects

Two persons appeared in municipal court today, one facing charges of criminal assault and the other charged with the larceny of money, as the result of long memories of two alleged victims.

Francis L. Curtin, 35, who told police he lived on a dredge in Boston harbor, faced Judge Joseph Zottoli on the assault charge, said to have taken place in a South End rooming house more than six months ago.

Identified by Mrs. Grace V. Young, 36, of Mt. Vernon st., Somerville, his alleged victim, he was held in $2500 bail.

Mrs. Cherris Costa, 24, of Brookline, pleaded not guilty to charges of larceny of money from Mrs. Viola DiMarco, 23, of Green st., West End, a waitress in an Essex st. cafe, who said the money disappeared from her home in December, 1941. Mrs. Costa was held in $500 bail.

Pope Urges High Movie Standard

VATICAN CITY, July 16 (AP)—The influence of the motion picture industry was stressed by Pope Pius XII in an address, made public today, before the motion picture executive committee of Hollywood here Saturday.

"One wonders at times," the Pope said, "if leaders of the motion picture industry fully appreciate the vast power they wield in affecting social life, whether in the family or larger groups."

His Holiness asked whether the screen's output was "something that will make for a better citizen—industrious, law abiding and God-fearing—who finds his joy and recreation in wholesome pleasure and fun."

Declaring "Bad conversation corrupts morals," the Pope said, "How much more effectively are they corrupted by bad conversation than accompanied by conduct vividly depicted which flouts the laws of God and civilized decency?"

Your Sleepers Roll off to WAR

But— YOUR TRAINS STILL RUN

Although two-thirds of our sleeping car business was abolished Sunday by the order of the Office of Defense Transportation, we cheerfully comply with this wartime ruling. Neither this railroad, nor any of the 700 businessmen making essential trips and others who filled these sleeping cars to capacity every night would wish to deprive our fighting men of the best equipment available.

The letter reproduced here explains why there will be no sleeping cars on the following trains:

THE PENOBSCOT —

Boston—Bangor
Boston—Ellsworth—Calais

STATE OF MAINE EXPRESS —

Portland—New York

THE NEW ENGLANDER —

Boston—Montreal

THE RED WING —

Boston—Montreal

THE MOUNT ROYAL —

Boston—Burlington, Vt.—Albany, N. Y.

BUT — all these trains will continue to operate on their accustomed schedules with coaches only. Boston and Maine will do everything it can to make night coach travel as comfortable as possible, supplying air-conditioned cars whenever available.

Sleeping cars will continue to operate on the following trains:

THE GULL —

Boston—St. John, N. B.—Halifax

THE PENOBSCOT —

Boston—Presque Isle—Van Buren, Me.

THE MINUTE MAN —

Boston—Cleveland—Chicago

ASSOCIATION OF AMERICAN RAILROADS TRANSPORTATION BUILDING WASHINGTON 8, D. C.

J. J. PELLEY
PRESIDENT

56626-2

July 7, 1945.

Colonel J. M. Johnson, Director,
Office of Defense Transportation,
Room 5136 I. C. C. Building,
Washington 25, D. C.
Dear Colonel Johnson:

This will acknowledge receipt of your letter of July 6 concerning General Order ODT 53,* which prohibits, effective Noon, July 15, 1945, the operation of sleeping cars to points of destination 450 miles or less from point of origin of any such car, the purpose being to provide more sleeping car equipment for our armed services.

We thoroughly appreciate the need for additional sleeping cars for our service men, which necessitates the issuance of this Order, and I am sure the public will also. Please be assured, therefore, that the railroads will wholeheartedly cooperate, not only in carrying out the provisions of the Order, but also in every other way so as to provide the necessary equipment for handling our military requirements.

You realize, of course, the burden such an Order places upon other important travel connected with our war effort and the inevitable creation of inequities which of necessity need be reviewed and corrected in the light of experience. I mention this fact because these are features which I know you will not want to overlook in such further consideration of the matter as may be necessary.

Yours very truly,
(S) J. J. PELLEY

*This order will make available to the Armed Forces, for the transportation of troops, an additional 895 Pullman cars and will give them exclusive use of approximately 66 per cent of the sleeping cars in the United States.

Even though accustomed comforts will be lacking, businessmen traveling at night in and out of Northern New England can be assured prompt arrival at their destinations—regardless of weather conditions.

Boston and Maine cheerfully gives up two-thirds of its sleeping car business during this emergency to help make our fighting men more comfortable. And we know that you, for the same reason, will just as cheerfully accept any discomforts you may experience while on necessary travel.

HOME OF Heart o' the Pelts FURS

Veterans' Friend

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Q—I am an unemployed veteran, and would like to know how I may obtain the $20 a week unemployment assistance provided under the G.I. Bill. Does it matter if the veteran already is receiving disability pension? A. F. S., Boston.

A—Apply to Unemployment Compensation Bureau, 7 Beacon st., Boston. If physically able to work, but unable to gain employment, you are eligible for benefit, even though you are receiving disability pension.

Q—What is the pay of a S-Sgt. in the overseas air force? G. K., Somerville.

A—Base pay, $96 monthly. Flying pay is an additional 50 per cent of base pay, plus 20 per cent for overseas duty.

Q—Can you tell me when the 8th Armored Division will return? Also what division the 126th Eng. is attached to? A. R., Medford.

A—The 8th Armored is scheduled to remain in Europe, and is not slated to return this year. Unable to answer your second question.

Q—Prior to my induction into the Navy, I served with the Coast Guard Temporary Reserve. Should this time be credited to me on my Navy discharge? J. B., East Boston.

A—No credit is given, according to the Navy.

Q—My husband is a member of an air force ground crew, and on May 12 he had a total of 78 points. Since then, his outfit has been awarded two additional battle stars, making his total 88. Will his score be altered, to make him eligible for discharge? L. S., Attleboro.

A—War Dept. states that point score will be set at 88, because battle stars were won prior to May 12.

Q—I am writing to obtain information regarding my son. When first inducted, he was classified 1-A. As far as I know, that classification has never been changed. He is now being sent overseas. Can limited service soldiers be sent overseas? If so, will it be non-combatant? A. F. Everett.

A—Limited service men are being shipped overseas, but not as combatants.

Q—Does the bonus bill now before Legislature mean that discharged veterans will be eligible, or is it intended only for those now in service? D. G., Boston.

A—The measure is intended for all World War II veterans.

Q—In March, 1945, my son, a member of the Seabees, went overseas. At the time, he said he would make out an allotment of $30 monthly. I have failed to receive any allotment. To whom should I write for information? S. S., Dorchester.

A—Office of Dependency and Benefits, Washington st., Newark, N. J.

Q—Is a soldier attached to the Medical Corps entitled to 20 per cent additional pay when sent overseas? D. M. F., Salisbury.

A—Yes, all members of the armed forces are granted a 20 per cent increase when assigned overseas.

Shangri-La Soldier Hails WAC Heroine

By GEORGE L. SCOTT

PORTLAND, Ore., July 16 (INS)—Shangri-La, where red-pointless porkers roam and the women are satisfied with a meager grass skirt, holds no allure for Sgt. Kenneth W. Decker.

The sergeant was one of three survivors of an Army plane crash in New Guinea's Hidden Valley.

Sgt. Decker, 34, snatched by glider from the jungle where he, WAC Cpl. Margaret Hastings, and Lt. John S. McCollum spent 47 days, is at Barnes General Hospital, Vancouver, Wash.

Decker had little to say of the first two days spent on a rocky shelf, nursing their wounds under shelter of two small rubber sheets.

"It was pretty rugged," he conceded. "Lt. McCollum and Cpl. Hastings got out of the plane under their own power. The last memory I had was of being airborne as the ship took off. When I woke up, I was outside the plane with my legs burned, a head cut and a bad elbow."

After the second day, they decided to leave the plane. A little candy, some boric acid salve and canned water was salvaged.

With the two men helping their WAC companion, whose legs were burned badly, they started for a little clearing lower down. It took them two days to descend 1500 feet through the jungle.

"I don't think many girls in the Army could have done it," Decker said. "The corporal had lots of grit. After we got down, we kidded her about being able to be feminine again."

The fourth day was the big day of their lives, Decker said.

"When that B-17 came over, sighted our signal sheets and dipped its wings, we knew most of our troubles were over."

Sun-baked
HAIR NEEDS
THOMAS CARE

Oddly enough, summer is both the best and worst season for your hair. Best, because hair grows faster in the summer than at any other time. Worst, because the hot rays of the mid-day sun, plus excessive perspiration, may leave your hair dry, straw-like, brittle, and faded. Therefore, you should start now to give your hair proper care and attention. By starting now you learn how to make the sun help (not harm) your hair and you take advantage of the fact that hair grows faster in the summer.

Consult a skilled Thomas hair expert today—in private, without charge. Let him show you exactly how the reliable, 20-year proved Thomas method provides proper hygienic care for your hair, removes itchy dandruff scales, and leaves your scalp with a clean, fresh, healthy feeling.

ABOLISH OWI

THE Office of War Information, while waiting for a decision in Congress on its appropriation for the coming year, has been guilty of the widespread dissemination in Russia of a gross LIBEL against the United States and the American people—and has ADMITTED IT.

The picture magazine, "America Illustrated," published by the Office of War Information and circulated for propaganda purposes in Russia, described "one quarter of the whole territory of the United States" as an area in which "industry is almost nonexistent," in which "rich natural resources are yet untouched," and in which "drought lasts for ten years in a row."

The region of the United States thus disparagingly described includes the State of Kansas, in one Congressional district of which—that represented by Congressman Hope—there was a total production last year of ONE HUNDRED MILLION BUSHELS OF WHEAT.

It includes North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Wyoming, Montana, Colorado and Utah, producers of fabulous agricultural, livestock and mineral wealth.

Of course such a description is "wrong, unfounded and untruthful," as Representative Rees of Kansas protested to Congress, and as the Wichita and Omaha Chambers of Commerce asserted in his support.

DIRECTOR ELMER DAVIS of the Office of War Information admits both the error and the falsity of the publication.

He agrees that it "presented an unfair and inaccurate picture."

He calls it "an error which we regret." It was "badly written, was a badly done piece, carried misstatements and will be corrected in a later issue," says Mr. Davis.

Now candor is a very fine thing in its place, but it is not very helpful in THIS case.

Why does the Office of War Information waste scarce print paper in DISSEMINATING falsehoods?

Why does it employ writers who know so little about their country, and apparently care a great deal less about it, that they are capable of such flagrant misrepresentation?

EVEN IF WHAT THEY WROTE WAS TRUE, WHAT PURPOSES OF AMERICAN PROPAGANDA WOULD BE SERVED BY TELLING THE STORY IN RUSSIA?

THE SITUATION has come to light at a most opportune time for Congress, although a most embarrassing time for the horde of job-holders employed by the Office of War Information.

Congress has had a great wavering of mind about how much money the Office of War Information should be allowed to spend in the coming year, ranging from the eighteen millions considered ample by the House of Representatives to the forty millions approved by the Senate.

"The compromise appropriation of thirty-five million dollars finally agreed upon in conference and accepted by both Houses constitutes a substantial victory for the Office of War Information, although it is considerably less than the agency desired."

(The agency spent nearly thirty millions last year, and asked for at least forty-two millions this year.)

But with this example before them of HOW the Office of War Information actually spends its money—in the disparagement and to the detriment of the United States—HOW CAN MEMBERS OF CONGRESS PERSUADE THEMSELVES THAT ANY APPROPRIATION OF MONEY TO THE AGENCY IS JUSTIFIABLE?

The Office of War Information, having convicted itself by its own defense, should not only be denied the appropriation it seeks. It should be ABOLISHED.

SUBSCRIBER brought up in the country says that I as a "city kid" never knew the joys of the "old swimmin' hole." In the first place, I will say I know the joys of swimming off the docks of New York harbor and consider this vastly superior as a youthful sport to that afforded by the "old swimmin' hole." I also enjoyed the "old swimmin' hole" as each year our family spent six weeks in the country up around Walker Valley, New York State. Quite a few other New York and Brooklyn families visit this section. The city kids could outswim the country kids. They could also beat them at baseball. In addition, when an argument ensued that led to a fight the city kid usually won the battle because his style of fighting was more scientific than that of the rural lad.

PASSING BY: Hope Hampton, film star of the silent film era. The distinguished appearing gentleman at her side is her husband, Jules Brulaton, film industry pioneer. Jules is no Frenchman, as is often stated, but was born in New Orleans. Hope and Jules must be nearing their 25th wedding anniversary. . . . Matt Brady, trainer of thoroughbred horses. Also, a skillful rider of Cocker spaniels. The Cocker spaniel is on the way to become America's most popular dog. Nevertheless, I still prefer a Springer spaniel. This is very nice of me to say, considering the trouble my Springer made for me last night. He wandered far from home. I had to go in search for him. I found the rascal around 4:30 in the morning. He was sitting on the lawn of a house, looking hopefully at the door. Waiting, no doubt, for his lady love to emerge! He certainly gave me a merry chase. And, boy, am I tired!

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: Have a communication from Leroy Morning of Hampden, Ill. Since Frank Morning of San Francisco challenged me with a claim he was my only reader of that name I have heard from 236 readers named Morning. . . . Am asked when and where the zipper was invented. All I know is it was invented by a man named Judson. When and where Mr. Judson gave birth to this great idea I can't say. The zipper is a wonderful accessory, but what the world needs now is a non-sticking zipper. My girl friend struggled with a jammed zipper for 15 minutes yesterday. She was more than slightly irritated.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—Are you prepared to admit Man O' War is the greatest living sire of race horses in the world? A—The world is a very large place, young fellow. I am not prepared to admit Man O' War is a greater sire than Blenheim III, Beau Pere or Nearco. The last named horse, bred by Frederico Tesio of Italy, never lost a race and was sold to Martin Benson of England for the equivalent of $300,000. Nearco sired the Epsom Derby winner Dante. Recently the equivalent of $404,000 was offered for Dante. Has anybody ever offered $404,000 for an animal sired by Man O' War? Q—Have you any readers born under the sign of Cancer? You wouldn't think so, the way you ignore us Cancer girls. Don't the stargazers claim Cancer (June 21-July 22) females can never get too much love. A Cancer wife wants her husband to kiss her at least six times when he says good-bye in the morning. Cancer women are usually the "phume girl" type. They make good secretaries but generally fall in love with the boss and try to marry him if he is available. The stargazers claim most Cancer women suffer from excess weight due to the wrong places. If you hear the lady upstairs rolling on the floor, she is probably a Cancer woman trying to streamline her hips.

HOME MANAGERS: Reason too many housekeepers take too much time doing their housework is because they make too many movements in doing things and also take too many steps. That is the opinion of efficiency men who have studied housewives at work. In some sections of the country there are now efficiency experts who train housewives in the matter of reducing their movements and steps to a minimum while doing housework. Home managers who have had this training are now doing their housework in less than half the time they did before.

ASIDES: Ninety-four-year-old Mrs. Margaret Barnes of Newcastle, Pa., has lived 91 years in the same house. This is the Pennsylvania state record for long term dwelling in the same domicile. . . . Alleged expert says dogs perspire only from the tongue, never from the skin. This old boy is a little behind the times. It was recently proven dogs sweat under the skin as well as perspiring from the tongue.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

NEW YORK, July 16—In August, 1941, I received from a national women's magazine which employs Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt as a columnist an advance copy of a writing from the lady's pen, scheduled for the September issue, in which Mrs. Roosevelt said: "I, personally, do not think that earning a small or large amount of money is commercializing the White House."

Westbrook Pegler

That was the year when Mrs. Roosevelt, herself, was engaged by the Pan-American Coffee Bureau, an organization supported by the public funds of nine Latin-American nations, to promote the sale of coffee in the United States, by a series of weekly broadcasts.

I have been told that her fee was $1000 a week and that a Mrs. Betty Lindley of Washington, Mrs. Roosevelt's agent, called on the National Coffee Ass'n, an American group, composed of importers, roasters, jobbers and wholesalers, to learn its objections to this project.

The Latin-American group, called the Bureau, and the United States group, called the Association, up to that time were collaborating in the promotion of coffee sales through advertising and propaganda in the United States. They had a joint committee of six men, to handle their activities, but the United States group formally dissolved the relationship because it objected to the deal for Mrs. Roosevelt's services.

IN A FORMAL LETTER to the members of the Association, dated July 23, 1941, about the time that Mrs. Roosevelt was composing her defense of her commercial activities for sale to the magazine, George C. Thierbach, its president, announced the termination of the co-operative agreement, "to relieve our members of an embarrassing situation in which they should have responsibility as trustees of public funds without equivalent authorities over expenditures."

Prior to this time the advertising account of the coffee campaign had been handled by the Arthur Kuder agency, a reputable New York firm, whose work today was recalled by an official of the coffee association as "an outstanding job if I have ever seen one."

It has been regarded ever since," he added. The account was taken away from the Kuder agency and handed to the Buchanan agency. There were two interesting persons in the Buchanan agency. David Hopkins, the son of Harry Hopkins of the White House, and John Hertz, Jr., whose father is the famous magazine race-track promoter and operator of one of the biggest racing stables and partner in the Lehman Brothers bank in New York.

IN GOING AFTER the coffee account, amounting to about $600,000 a year, of which the agency normally receives 15 per cent or, in this case, $90,000, for its services, the Buchanan firm prepared a booklet called "A Plan to Increase the Sale of Coffee in the United States," urging the employment of a commanding American personality on the air.

Following are excerpts from the booklet: "We recommend to you as that radio personality a woman who stands forthright in her own life as the best example of the modern woman, who gets more out of life by giving more to life: a woman beloved and respected because, in these most troubled times in the history of our hemisphere, she is the 'First Lady' of the United States, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt."

"We have made the proper contacts. We have discovered that Mrs. Roosevelt is desirous of going on the air. We have ascertained that she will give first consideration to Buchanan and Company as the authorized representative of the Pan-American Bureau. The matter has been carried even further. We have obtained preliminary 'carte blanche' from the State Department for Mrs. Roosevelt to broadcast for the Pan-American Coffee Bureau."

The accuracy of this claim may be doubted. A man entirely familiar with the affairs of the dissenting American coffee group insists that Sumner Welles of the State Department and even Lord Henderson, then influential in the New Deal, opposed the engagement of Mrs. Roosevelt.

"But Harry Hopkins told them to lay off," he said, and the contract went to the company which employed his son, with Mrs. Roosevelt as the lure.

Hollywood Today

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, July 16—Well, here's some news to brighten this Monday morning and I mean it's a story what is a story. The adventures of the famed Shangi-La trio, Cpl. Margaret Hastings, Lt. John B. McCollom and Sgt. Kenneth Decker, are coming to the screen.

Sam Jaffe is the smart producer who was quickest on his toes getting the Army's permission to make a movie about the fate that overtook these three when their C-47 set them down in the uncharted Hidden Valley. For 47 days they were cut off from the world, but were white kings and a queen in the eyes of the admiring natives.

What a beautiful, stunning girl the corporal is—all five feet and 96 pounds of her. She is so lovely that when Jaffe huddled with her on the story when she gets out here next week he will talk fast to get her to play herself in her fantastic adventure.

IHAD EXPECTED Anna Lee would really make a big deal in Hollywood after she appeared with Ronald Colman in "My Life with Caroline." She was so very attractive, but she hasn't done much since that picture was made in 1941. Now she goes to RKO for the top role in "Chamber of Horrors," a story laid in England in 1761 when public insane asylums were being investigated and although she is a full-fledged American, she plays an Englishwoman. When Miss Lee came here she was married to Robert Stevenson, a director. She went overseas and fell in love with Capt. George Stafford, who is stationed at Long Beach. She married him after a whirlwind courtship.

FROM HERE ON Abbott and Costello belong body and per cent to Universal. In a hot deal involving a cool million U bought off the boys' Metro contract calling for a picture a year for the next four years. In basic English, this means "Abbott and Costello in Hollywood" is their last outside movie and when they return from their appearance jaunt they check in at the home base for "The Noose Hangs High." Speaking of that jaunt, the boys were guaranteed $20,000 a week for their Broadway engagement, plus a percentage. Business was so hot they dragged down $30,000, the highest salary ever paid at the Roxy or elsewhere.

MONA MARIS, who was to have married wealthy oil man E. T. Lohman in June, tells me she has broken the engagement. "I met his parents and liked them very much and everything was arranged for our wedding, but we had differences of opinion—things I do not care to discuss. So I thought since I'd waited all these years I didn't want to have an unhappy marriage now." Chief bone of contention seemed to be in the place in which they were to live. Mona thought California was to be their home but he has extensive interests in Texas and told her she would have to live there. Mona divulged that she was once married to Ramon Echague in

"Will you infantry guys kindly look where you throw your lighted matches?"

South America. "I was only 16," she said, "and was only married three months. But it took me seven years to get my freedom, so I'll never marry again until I am 50."

RUMORS ARE hot and heavy that the week-old marriage of Gwenn Anderson (former wife of Helmut Dantine) and Playwright Edward Chodorov has hit the rocks. There is no chance of a reconciliation. In trying to contact Gwenn in New York, I learned she has left for two weeks' vacation with her mother. And when I switched the call to Chodorov, I learned he is here and has been so since seven days after his marriage to Gwenn. Their close friends are convinced that the marriage, which took place less than a month ago, will be annulled if it does not hit the divorce courts. Acute temperamental differences are said to be the reason.

CONGRATULATIONS to RKO. This company carries off the first Arthur Rank deal made in America. After a conference with N. Peter Bathson, chairman of RKO's directors, and Ned Depinet, president, in New York, and later with Charles Koerner in Hollywood, a contract was drawn calling for the production of RKO pictures in Britain and their distribution by Rank.

A Hollywood producer, selected jointly, will go to London to produce the first picture to be made at Denham studios with a top Hollywood personality, plus a British cast. This will be the first of many RKO movies made overseas under Rank's supervision.

Boston American, July 16—19

CAN YOU think of two actors more unlike in appearance and style than Sydney Greenstreet and George Arliss? Well, a little detail like that and keeping Watsons from taking "The Millionaire" made five years ago with Arliss) from the shelf for Greenstreet. I have noticed that Watson has been wearing Sydney from his suave villain roles and making him a more sympathetic character. He's a very upright citizen in "Conflict." I hope he won't reform all the way. Charles Hittman, recently tipped to a producer's berth, will make "The Millionaire."

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Adrita and Bobby Specht saying farewell at dinner at Mike Lyman's. She looked very sad because he's going in four. Everyone believes they are secretly married; apparently the reports of George Arliss' very serious illness are exaggerated. There have been letters from him from overseas in which he says he is well; Jerry Lucas, who was in Miss West's play "Catherine Was Great," followed her to Hollywood, but when she said "no" he turned right around and went back. In New York she saw quite a lot of him, but in Hollywood things were changed; former New York Mayor Jimmy Walker, popular in Hollywood, New York and everywhere he has ever been, has been made president of the Majestic Reexcess Company. We hoped he was going to be in movies.

MARGARET SULLIVAN is coming back to spend the winter here with her children, but it's only temporary. She will return to the farm in Connecticut, come spring; reports are hot again that Hellen Deutsch, MGM writer, will soon marry the owner of a gas station. She denied this before, but now it seems the gossip is hot again.

WASHINGTON, July 16—If something isn't done about this Archibald MacLeish whole lot of clamorous citizens, including the officials of one of our biggest warplane companies, are positively going to blow their tops.

The bald bard of baldersdash, as the patinated Assistant Secretary of State of Archibald MacLeish has often been called, is at it again. This time he bids fair to top his own fatuous record.

Let's go at it chronologically: The Consolidated Vultee Co. has just constructed a giant new bombing plane. The thing is about tops in flying deadlines.

Now, before giving a name to a warplane it is necessary to get an okay from an outfit named — so help me! — the Joint Airplane Naming Commission. Although the planes to be named are strictly American, the British have representatives on the commission. And they usually have a lot to say, too.

So the Vultee people went before the commission and suggested the name "Dominator" for their new sky marauder. The august commissioners kicked the name around and then decided it was really quite appropriate.

The Vultee people proceeded to spend literally thousands upon thousands of dollars in promotion. They took out pages of institutional advertising in which the name "Dominator" was paraded in large type.

As part of the promotion, they flew the ship to San Francisco where they exhibited it before the United Nations delegates. Everyone seemed to be deeply impressed.

They were all set to launch their advertising with a bang when they received a call from a party in the office of Robert A. Lovett, Assistant Secretary of War for Air. This party said he trusted that everything turned down everything. . . . Arlene Francis has been accredited by MGM and Columbia during her California sojourn. . . . Sophie Tucker now seals her letters with a neat little sticker reading, "Have you read my autobiography. Some of These Days?" . . . Rosalind Russell's doctors have ordered her to eat meat, and forget about being a vegetarian. . . . An All-American fullback is losing sight of one eye. . . . Velez and Yolanda, who are awaiting their third child, may never dance again professionally. Frank Velez, the male half of the team, is interested in a screen-writing career. . . . A special material writer should be embarrassed. Two of his clients—feature and femme singers—are doing almost identical routines.

had been attended to and that the name "Dominator" had been changed.

The Vultee fellows did a double take. It was the first they had heard about any name-changing.

"Change the name?" they howled, aghast. "What do you mean, change the name? The name has been agreed upon!" "That does not matter," retorted the party in Assistant Secretary Lovett's office. "The State Department objects to the name 'Dominator' and you have got to change it to something else!"

The Vultee people demanded to know who, or whom in the State Department had done the demanding. The party in Lovett's office said he was not at liberty to tell.

A Vultee official communicated with the State Department and got a good old run-around for a couple of days. Finally he got hold of one of our career diplomats who admitted the order had come from Archibald MacLeish.

FURTHER CONFERENCES ensued and finally the State Department spokesman—meaning the guy who talked for Archibald—explained:

"We have decided the name 'Dominator' sounds too domineering. Other countries might get the idea that the United States wished to dominate. The name sounds unnecessarily truculent."

HOLLYWOOD, July 16—I always like to go on the sets to watch the performers, especially the off stage relationship between hero and heroine. Then, too, a movie set is a great place to hear yarns.

Let's take this set of "Whistle Stop" where the leading man is George Raft and the leading lady is Ava Gardner and the director is Leonide Moguy, a guy who used to make pictures in Europe and is now getting his big chance here. I recall when Raft first met Ava Gardner. It was at Romanoff's. In fact, I was in a booth with Ava when Raft came over to say hello to me, but he wasn't fooling me or anyone in the booth. He really wanted to say hello to Ava and get an introduction.

During the conversation, he said to Ava: "I'd like to make a picture with you some day. You've got everything. You'd be great." It was a good approach. After all, he couldn't give her the usual line. "How would you like to be in pictures? I believe I can do something about it," because she already was in pictures. Now, here she is, Raft's leading lady. But it's a little too late for a romance between Raft and Ava, because she is pretty well smitten with Artie Shaw—and he with her. In fact, as Ava plays a scene with Raft, I notice that she is wearing an ankle bracelet, and I know the inscription on that bracelet. It says "To A. From A."

WHENEVER a bedroom scene is being played, I like to be on the set. Gene Tierney and Cornel Wilde are doing a bed

"Well, for heaven's sake!" gasped the Vultee man. "Sounds truculent, eh? Naturally that would never do for a fighting plane."

The sarcasm was wasted on the State Department minion. Finally the exasperated Vultee man asked if the State Department had any suggestions as to what the name should be changed to.

"Oh, yes," said the State Department, "we have decided on a perfectly splendid substitute. We think you should call it 'The Terminator'!"

THE VULTEE PEOPLE are now trying to figure out what relation the name "Terminator" has to a warplane. Said one:

"Maybe it means we should stop making planes."

ANOTHER THING the Vultee people want to know—and they ask more in sorrow than in anger, although they have plenty of the latter—is this:

Who is going to pay for all the advertising and promotion they will be forced to scrap if the MacLeish edict stands? Also

Who is going to pay for their wounded feelings when our fighting pilots start laughing like hyenas over the name "Terminator?"

PRESS AND NAVY photographers are still tuning over the fast one Secretary of the Navy Forrestal pulled the other night at the premiere of the new radio show, "The Navy Hour" staged at George Washington University, here.

There was so much gold braid to photograph, the photos began running short of flashbulbs and plates. So they stopped snapping admirals and generals, holding their fire to await the arrival of Forrestal. Finally someone spotted Forrestal in the audience. He had passed down the lines of cameras without being recognized!

TO MAKE IT more galling for the photos, the minute the show was over Forrestal was whisked out a side door by two WAVES.

George Holland is on his annual vacation and his Boston After Dark column will be resumed July 30.

sequence in "Leave Her to Heaven," and in technicolor yet. It is being directed by John Stahl.

Gene and Cornel are a young married couple in the film, for you know the Hays Office: If a boy and girl are going to be around a bed, they've got to be married. Gene is in one twin bed, and Cornel is in the other. It is morning, according to the script. Gene, wearing a very filmy nightgown, awakens first. She calls to Cornel. Like a dope, he keeps on sleeping. She calls again. He still doesn't wake up! What a man!

Gene, however, will have none of that, for, according to the script, she is a very jealous woman who is afraid that her husband is slipping away from her. So she gets up and walks over to Cornel's bed and sits down next to him. He still doesn't budge. What an actor!

Then Gene kisses Cornel neatly, and he starts to act intelligently. He wakes up. They kiss each other fondly. After this, Gene very sweetly pulls his covers down a little, as if she is considering going to sleep again, but now in his bed. This is as far as the Hays Office will allow this married couple to go, and so at this point Darryl Hickman, playing Cornel's younger brother, knocks on the door. The camera moves to him and follows him as he enters the room. That's all the Hays Office will permit to be filmed.

GETTING BACK to actors and actresses who are playing scenes standing up, I go on the set of "This Strange Adventure," where the main attraction is Clark Gable. His leading ladies are Greer Garson and Joan Blondell and, although they both have had many famous leading men, I can see that they are thrilled by Gable. He is the performer's idea of a movie hero.

While Director Victor Fleming is lining up the next scene, Gable, Garson and Blondell are sitting around listening to B. Kaper, the musician, tell a story. Kaper, being a musician, is talking about a musician, Paderewski. When he was being interviewed, Paderewski told the interviewers that, when he was 33, he realized that he had no talent for piano playing. The interviewers asked him why he hadn't stopped playing, and Paderewski replied, "It was too late. I was already famous."

Anyway, you should have heard Gable laugh.

TIME HAS NEVER been in the habit of standing still, especially summertime, and members of the Oyster Harbor Club have never been in the habit of allowing grass to grow under their feet. The daily program that many go through in golf, tennis, riding, swimming and sailing, would put a college athlete to shame.

Mrs. William H. Danforth of Wellesley Hills, has moved four of her horses to the Oyster Harbor stables and she and her daughter, Mrs. Willard A. Stevenson, the former Helen Danforth, enjoy the bridle paths on the island. Guests at the Danforth

Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Rockwood of Cambridge, colonists at the club, had their family circle complete last week when their son, Lt. David Rockwood, arrived for an unexpected leave from the Air Corps. Miss Louise Rockwood, a student at Bennington, chose that week to go with her family also. Miss June Beebe Rockwood, a debutante of last season, and Wright Rockwood will be at the family home all summer.

The visit of Mr. and Mrs. J. Fern Hollis of Marblehead at the James B. Hollis home last week was the occasion for a "sing" on Wednesday evening. The Hollis guests at dinner at the club included Mr. and Mrs. Alex Henderson of West Dennis and Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Newton of Falmouth. Among the singers who gathered around the piano to enjoy Mrs. J. Fern Hollis' music were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lindsay of Brookline, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Packard of Hacksack, N. J., and Mr. and Mrs. George A. Nicol, Jr., of Palm Beach.

ARMY HONEYMOONERS at the club during the week were Sgt. and Mrs. Edmund R. Thornton, who were married at the Church of the Advent in Boston on July 5. Mrs. Thornton is the former Janet Dickinson Hodder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Alan Hodder of Framingham Center. Sgt. Thornton recently returned from 33 months overseas, 27 of which were spent in a German prison camp near Braunsau.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Beckwith of Brookline are also honeymooning at Oyster Harbor currently.

Satinizes the Skin

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor
BEAUTY MAY BE skin deep . . . but the girls who don't want a little of that surface delight are few and far between. Or am I wrong? Or do I move in a different circle? Everywhere I go women are talking about how to be lovelier . . . how to improve their complexion . . . how to make their skin softer and satiny.

Every woman wants to have a beautiful complexion . . . and she who denies it isn't being true to that inner voice. Those who actually don't care . . . probably haven't an incentive. But human nature being what it is . . . and love still making the world go round . . . most women are or want to be the object of some masculine affection . . . hence the desire to enhance the face that smiles and looks into HIS with irresistible charm.

Which brings us to the subject at hand . . . refining the skin texture . . . minimizing those enlarged pores . . . dressing up the facial pet with as much beauty as a gal dresses her slim silhouette. Daily application of an astringent does help . . . but who can wait so long for results? Especially . . . when an oil and meal astringent is obtainable that speeds up the action . . . actually satinizs the skin as it contracts the enlarged pores . . . and evolves a complexion in due course of time that would do any beauty-conscious girl proud.

HELPS THE SKIN CONDITION

You can actually see the float floating about in the bottle . . . honest-to-goodness cereals chosen because of their not-to-be-denied action on the complexion. This meal added to a wonderful fast-working astringent of oil potency can take any skin in hand and do near miracles with it. We've seen results and we know it is good . . . for this preparation is specifically designed for the gal with the inferiority complexion . . . with the troubled skin problem of enlarged pores. And since a porous skin is a coarse skin nine times out of ten . . . this double-barreled-action cosmetic wender not only purifies the complexion . . . but helps the skin condition.

The only astringent on the other hand . . . has firming and tissue strengthening propivities to react simultaneously on a skin that needs refining and softening. Even though your skin may not sport a blemish . . . if it has these disfiguring pin heads dotting what should be an expanse of smooth softness . . . then the cause of facial loveliness is lost.

For the name of this pore-dispeller and skin-satinizer, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBERTY 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Beauty

NOT FOR NAUGHT was Warner Star Joan Leslie chosen as the "official sweetheart" by a group of American ex-prisoners of war . . . now in England recovering from the ordeals of hunger and captivity. A peek at her beautiful face . . . with the light of loveliness so indelibly written into its softness and flawlessness . . . tells a story of facial envy . . . and should fire any girl's will to try and match it for perfection.

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

you will be quite wrong.

"THE ANSWER IS that our husky American soldier-friend, perhaps on his last three hours' trip to our home, is making history right here. Cpl. Wilsie, from far-off Caro, Mich., tonight is the greatest chap on earth in the village of Spoforth.

"Surrounded by this welter of howling, delighted kids between the ages of 7 and 15—not all boys, a preponderance of girls. Cpl. Wilsie is teaching British children the rudiments of baseball.

"I am wondering if this may not be one of the ways in which we can heal the sickness of the world when peace comes. After a comradeship of war, can there be a greater and further-reaching comradeship of victory?

"Surely if in the green fields which saw the passage of the Romans, the invading Scots, the battling hordes of Oliver Cromwell, one American corporal is controlling the hands and hearts of 15 naive children and in so doing is teaching them to play a game, in this very fact there seems to me there is some hope.

"THE LAST WHACK of leather on wood is heard this night and our motley baseball teams return to the street; but long after Bill Wilsie has left England and returned to his own native state will this night be remembered.

"Not because today is V-E day, but because one humble-minded American soldier made of himself a child with children and brought to this blessed spot a touch of the new world in an old-world friendly fashion."

Tongue Menu

By MARTHA LEE

TONGUE is a delicious meat for warm weather. It has a mild flavor which goes well with a wide variety of vegetables—yes, and fruits, too. Tongue is good either hot or cold. When served hot, it is frequently accompanied by a spicy sauce with raisins or other fruits in it. When served cold, it may be jellied, or used in any number of salads.

Because tongue is one of the less tender meats, it should always be simmered slowly in water until tender. Smoked or pickled tongue needs to be soaked for several hours before cooking; fresh tongue is not soaked, and salt should be added to the water in which it is cooked.

After being simmered until tender, the tongue is skinned and trimmed. Plunging it into cold water makes the skin easier to remove. If it is to be served cold, the meat will be juicier if it is skinned and then allowed to cool in the water in which it was cooked.

An excellent way to use the fresh cherries which are now on the market is in the recipe given below for Tongue a la Maryland. These tart fruits, cooked with spice, add an appealing pungency to the delicate flavor of the meat.

We've included fresh spinach on today's menu, because it seems to be almost second nature with some cooks to serve spinach with tongue. However, if you have other greens in your garden, they may be substituted for the spinach, if desired.

TONGUE A LA MARYLAND
 1 fresh calf or beef tongue
 1/2 cup of margarine or butter
 1/2 tsp. salt
 1 bay leaf
 1 tbsp. whole cloves
 1/2 cup brown sugar

Tongue a la Maryland

1 1/2 cups canned or fresh-cooked cherries 1 cup meat broth
 1/2 lemon, sliced
 Wash tongue and simmer in water until tender, allowing 1 hour per pound. Plunge into cold water, remove all skin, and trim off roots. Place in pan and add all remaining ingredients. Simmer on top of range until liquid thickens, or about 25 minutes. Cut meat in thin slices; serve the sauce over the sliced meat or pass separately.

LEFTOVER MEAT FOR SALAD
 If there is any tongue left over, you might cut it in cubes or small thin strips and make it into a main dish salad. A good combination is tongue with shredded raw cabbage. This may be varied by adding either raw carrot and pickles or chopped green and red peppers.

Diced cold tongue may also be combined with cooked vegetables such as carrots, potatoes or peas. The vegetables should be thoroughly chilled and, if desired, may be marinated in French dressing. For a fancier salad, mix cooked tongue with sweet-sour pickles, celery and green pepper and mold in aspic jelly. Garnish with sliced hard-cooked eggs, or serve in a loaf surrounded with deviled eggs and parsley.

HYDE PARK, Sunday—I gave you today a letter written from Great Britain on V-E Day, which seems to me significant.

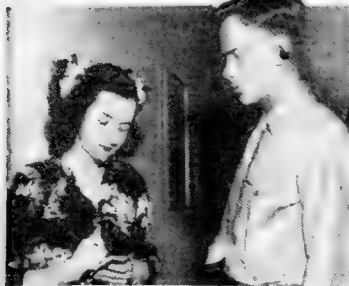

"Out across the land from where I type, where, in years gone by, the ships of death approached our countryside, there is history in the making—locally and nationally too, as this great date is being inscribed on future records.

"Here in the fields of England's green and pleasant land, children are playing, shouts and hoofs of delight fill the peace of this very old village. I see 15 children at least, jumping turning, tiring themselves out with very great content.

"Why? If you should say that it is because peace is coming and there is a balm to be lit,

Tunic Dress Subs for Suit

By BETTINA BEDWELL

A SUBSTITUTE for the suit, to wear during the hot months of summer, is the tunic dress that has the air which makes a suit so desirable. Dresses with rather long tunic blouses and simple skirts are the ones fashion favors for wear right now on city streets.

The fact that the tunic falls over the skirt gives you the same effect that a jacket gives, without the weight of the former. Miss Dulin has sketched a very good dress of this kind, from Mollie Parnis. Here the tunic waist is made of clear yellow spun rayon with a white polka dot pattern. It is almost sleeveless and the tunic is knuckle length and gathered onto a set-in belt. It buttons down the front and has a V-shaped neckline. The straight skirt is made of black shantung.

After all, where else can a guy be patriotic and make a 25% investment profit in the same gesture, except at a war bond window? When you think it over, when a guy puts his surplus cash to work, it's a lot better to put it in bonds, to get better tighten up the bolts in his headgear, for he's less plain nuts. Here Are Experts' Rules For Canning Beans, Beets

By FOSTER H. WEISS

(Head Vegetable Gardening Department, Norfolk County Agricultural School, and Director, Junior-Beyond-American-Highway Advisory Demonstration Garden on Boston Common.)

With more beans and beets now being produced in many gardens than can be used fresh, this is the time to can them for future use. The following rules on canning.

even out by the home demonstration department of our State College, may be of help to beginners:

1—Get good equipment. Extensive equipment is not necessary. Pans for washing and rinsing, a kettle for blanching, knives and a large kettle for processing, or a pressure cooker is all that is needed. Of the equipment the canner (or processor) is the only one that may not be found in the home.

2—Jars are better than last years. There were a number of complaints about taste from the rubber and it is suggested that you boil the rings. Dissolve one tablespoon of baking soda in a quart of boiling water. Put in the rings and boil for 10 minutes, and raise in clear water. Use solution only once.

1—Wash beans to remove soil.
2—Cut off ends and then cut beans into one-inch lengths.
3—Pack in clean jars two-thirds full.
4—Add ½ teaspoon salt to pints and one teaspoon to quarts.
5—Fill jars to top with hot water.
6—Wipe off top edge of jar, put on jar rings, cover and snap down both clamps.
7—Put jars into cooker and process with hot water 100 minutes for pints and 120 minutes for quarts. Count your time from the time the water starts to boil. If a pressure cooker is used, process for 35 minutes for 10 pounds in pints and 40 minutes for quarts.

Do not try to get too many beans ready to can at one time or fill more than one-half of the canner. If one cooker is used, as beans that are left standing for too long before processing will develop flat and sour.

After processing, remove from canner, cool quickly and store in a cool, dark place. Use only the best of your crop for canning.

About Machine Gun Skill: $8,000 vs $50-a-Month

By AUSTEN LAKE

I HAVE A GENTLEMAN HERE, DOCTOR! He is a discharged Army machine gunner, twice wounded, and he says "I've tried to get a job in the machine-gun assembly plant of several New England arms plants. But they aren't interested. I hoped to turn my war experience to practical account, so I applied for work as a machine-gun assembler, at which I am expert and can take apart and put together any make of machine-gun blindfolded. I did that job in Germany on dark nights, sometimes with snow and dust blowing, and sometimes under heavy rain. But I can't get to first base. Why? Ex-Cpl. YD, Dorchester."

I don't know why! But I do know that recently Representative Albert J. Engel of Michigan rose in Congress and made an expose of Government waste. He said: "Among other places, I went to the Colt Arms Co. I took the craft of machine-gun assemblers. I took the highest paid and the lowest paid alternating till I had 25. The highest paid machine-gun assembler was paid $8741 or $241 more than the base pay of a Lt. General."

"Of the 25, five were paid from $8000 to $8741; seven between $7000 and $8000; seven from $6000 to $7000, and only two got below $5000. The lowest paid man received $4788. All this while soldiers assembling machine-guns in the Army were paid as low as $50 a month for the same work."

"Amplified Splash of April Rain"

NOBODY BEGRUDGES HIGH WAGES to skilled labor. But how can one reconcile such a reward amid the cozy, 48-hour-a-week blandishments of home, with the hazardous tasks of a machine gunner in the combat lines? Try to convince the machine gunners, who have to know more about their weapons in perilous surroundings than any factory assembler.

I've seen 4th Armour 30 mm and 50 calibre machine gunners firing furiously, exposed from the belly upwards in their circular, half-track turrets while German Luftwaffe planes strafed them at low levels. Sometimes their guns jammed and they'd strip down the mechanisms, tinker with the internal giblets and roar back in action within 45 seconds. They knew those gas-recoil weapons to the last little land, grove, tri-dog and spring. The reward of their scholarship was life or death.

Yeh, there was that hell-torrid spot beside the blazing tower of Kreuzburg where Capt. Pete Raggio of 20 Chestnut st., Brooklyn, and I watched from the windows of a medieval hilltop castle that overlooked the River Werra. Our engineers were constructing a postern bridge a neat 100 yards away! And all day long Heinie planes bombed and strafed them, dipping out of the overcast and lunging down to lay their eggs or spray the workers with showers of steel.

Our machine gunners were scattered around the bridge like cows grazing in a pasture. They blazed at each successive wave of planes like the inverted torrent of a fire hose. The sound effect resembled the amplified splash of heavy April showers, alternately swelling in lethal cloudbursts and dwindling to sporadic patters. Those gunners took their toll and took the brunt of strafing right in their faces. Between attacking intervals I watched them dismantle their weapons, cleaning and oiling the shining parts and fitting them back into place for the next assault, and the next. No factory assembler knew his weapons more intimately or had defter finger-touch skill.

And they didn't get any $8000. They worked in constant peril the clock around, sleeping where they found themselves, eating from those packet K-cans of dried nausea and dog biscuit, $50 a month and upwards, plus combat bonus.

YEH! THERE WAS THAT UNFORGETTABLE Easter Sunday when the panorama on the German highway was like 30 Ringling circuses, only these vehicles were dirty, olive drab instead of gilt and tinsel, and the performers were grimy, bearded and gaunt instead of gawdy, painted and satin-clad. Our combat column was stalled where German sappers had blown a bridge, and it stood bumper-to-tailboard under an overhanging cliff where enemy snipers fired from woody ambushes. And our machine gunners shot triangles of fire, saturating the scenery, and occasionally dying in their turrets.

There was a covered Heinie troop transport train 200 yards away and one of our tanks poured incendiaries into their chassis, exploding the trucks in sudden gasoline gusto. I recall hearing one gunner chirp "Ringo" as he set a string of trucks alight, as one might exclaim after hitting a slot machine for a jackpot of quarters. The gunner was Cpl. Bill Goo of 1599 South Main, Waterbury.

Yeh! Some of those boys died or fell forward in their turrets, while others took their places at the triggers. They knew their guns. Every man-jack could have stepped into a plant assembly line and fitted those weapons together deftly, expertly—at the factory scales of $4788 to $8741. But they only drew $50 a month-plus and sometimes expired doing it!

Yeh! A YD Division liaison officer led the way up a steep backstop of a mountain in the Saar to a forward OP. The observation post lay on the crest, where a makeshift tower was built of tall pine poles, with a sapling ladder. It resembled the kind of crow's nest that kids build as an arboreal hideout. It looked over a rolling valley where brush fires, started by our artillery shells, burned in rosy lines.

An infantry machine gun platoon was storming a Siegfried pillbox and the gunners were covering the bunker's fire slits with streams of bullets and tracers that bounced at angles. I could see furtive, green-clad figures of German soldiers escaping through the brush like fleas in a dog's fur and the maggot-like forms of our men climbing from their ditch while their gunners pressed short bursts, "tuh, tuh, tuh, tuh, tuh, tuh, tuh, tuh." They didn't run! They merely walked at dispersed distances, like men striding on a warm Sunday. Yeh! These men knew their guns—but not at $8000 a 48-hour week.

No, Corporal, I don't know why you can't get that job!

Jim Tobin Puts More Pressure On Cards

By BILL GRIMES

ST. LOUIS, July 16—After taking a double-header from the Cardinals yesterday, Mgr. Bob Coleman will send Jim Tobin to the mound tonight against the world's champions.

Tobin has beaten the Cards twice this season. He gave them a 9 to 2 treatment here on Memorial Day and then, with the able assistance of large John Hutchings he took them at home on the first day of this month.

The Braves are slowly driving Mgr. Billy Southworth to despair. In the 12 games his Cardinals have played the Coleman this season, Southworth has used no less than 34 pitchers. In the first home and home series the Cards took the odd game in seven starts. Then, the Braves asserted themselves and now they have won five straight from the "Champs." So, the Braves will take an 8 to 4 advantage into tonight's contest.

During yesterday's double-header, John Hutchings, Bill Lee and Mort Cooper contributed some of the best pitching the Braves have offered this season.

"Big Hutch," who has now won five games, was at his best. From start to finish, he was ahead of every batter. He would have pitched shutout ball but for a slip by Eddie Joost, who dropped a perfect throw from Phil Masi, which had Johnny Hopp by ten feet with two down. After the error, Kurovski singled home the lone Cardinal tally.

LEE LOOKS GOOD

Lee is a big man. He requires plenty of work to keep in shape. He came over from Pittsburgh in a sleeper Saturday night. His train was three hours late. And, moreover, he hadn't been in a game since July 4th. For six innings, Lee showed that he still has plenty of stuff and also that he knows how to pitch. But, he began to tire in the seventh, during which a wild throw by Joost presented the Cardinals with the tying run. Then, in the seventh Ray Sanders combed a soft pitch up on the top of the right field pavilion for what had all the earmarks of a game winning home run.

But, now that they believed in themselves, the Braves went to work on Jack Creel. They put across the tying run in the ninth with such despatch that Billy Southworth removed Creel and substituted Bud Byerly with Carden Gillenwater on third and nobody out. Byerly did a remarkable piece of relief pitching by getting the next three batters and leaving "Gilly" stranded.

However, Bud wasn't so fortunate in the 10th, for the Braves reached him for two runs, which, with Morton Cooper, who had taken over in the 9th, pitching, was the ball game.

Cooper rejoined the club yesterday. He has been here for a

He proved that he is ready week taking X-ray treatments. When Cooper went to the hill top in the 9th, the fans, as incidentally there were 22,693 at Sportsman's Park yesterday, gave him a going over. They booed him long and loud. It was bad judgment, Cooper was mad and when he's mad he's bad medicine. He started off fanning Byerly. Then, Bergamo and Schoendienst fled to Gillenwater. But, it was in the 10th that he really poured it to his old team mates. Buster Adams went down swinging and then Kurovski fell away from a high inside pitch and singled. Sanders' best effort was a grand dribbler and he was retired but Kurovski moved over to second. At that point Billy Southworth sent Ken O'Dea up to hit for Rice. O'Dea has parked many balls on the roof of the right field stands, and even out on Grand ave. But, Cooper rared up and threw three balls by the Cardinals' catcher and the game was over.

Beldine and Balzaretti Top Turf Combination

By JACK CONWAY

SIDE BOY and the other thoroughbreds entered in the $50,000 Massachusetts Handicap, which will be staged at Suffolk Downs on Aug. 11, are fortunate that R. H. Carroll's Beldine with Jockey Bill Balzaretti at the controls are not eligible for the classic. Even though only a three-year-old, Beldine would have an excellent chance of winning.

Beldine proved he is one of the speediest horses to ever race in New England when, carrying 114 pounds, he equaled Kenyon C's record of 1:43 1-5 for one mile and a sixteenth established on June 3, 1933. Kenyon C. was a 4-year-old at the time he hung up his mark and carried only 108 pounds, six pounds less than Beldine did as he won the $50,000 added Paul Revere Handicap.

It is likely that Beldine would have broken the track record if he had been hard pressed by Side Boy who finished second. Side Boy was raced dizzy by Beldine and lacked his usual fire in the stretch drive. It is impossible for a thoroughbred to show speed in the early part of a race, as Side Boy was required to do in order to keep close to Beldine, and still finish strongly.

Beldine looked like a great race horse as he broke on top at the start and was never headed. Jockey Bill Balzaretti, one of the most capable riders at Suffolk Downs, knew just what his mount could do and he was a happy youngster when he paraded Beldine into the winner's circle. Balzaretti was also up on Rockwood, Daisy who won to pay $20,400. On the form Balzaretti has shown at Suffolk Downs he is entitled to be rated with the leading riders of the country.

The racing has been good at Suffolk Downs. Allan Wilson, with years of experience in the turf sport, knows that as long as the racing maintains its present high standing, that the attendance and mutual handle will continue to roll merrily upward. The handle for Saturday hit $1,414,887 for a daily average of $1,079,725.

Bring Me Home Wins

ONE OF THE happiest persons at Suffolk Downs is Horace Wade, who, with Charley Martin of Attleboro, owns Bring Me Home. This handicapper won a $10,000 race at Detroit on Saturday. Bring Me Home was three lengths in front as he passed the mythical finish line to pay $112.00.

Wade and Martin also own Belive, winner of a recent $30,000 race at Detroit. Lasting Peace, a three-year-old who has yet to win a race, and several other horses. When Detroit racing closed 10 days ago, Wade told this writer he and Martin would sell their racing stable for $75,000. Horace took the horses off the market when racing was resumed in Detroit.

After Bring Me Home won, I asked Wade what he would sell the horse for.

"My asking price is $150,000," he replied.

Ten days makes quite a difference in the value of race horses.

Rock Plans Meeting

DESPITE THE ban on the shipment of horses by rail and by common carrier Lou Smith is going ahead with plans for his Rockingham Park meeting that will open on Aug. 13. There are already more than 100 horses at Rockingham, and it is expected that private vans, permitted by law, will deliver 400 more horses.

to Rockingham within the next four weeks.

There are many horsemen who plan to walk their horses to Rockingham Park by easy stages. It is a bit under 35 miles from Suffolk Downs.

I find veteran horsemen eager to help Smith get the necessary horses for his meeting. It is this love of the thoroughbred that has enabled racing to become even a bigger sport than baseball.

Texas Sandman Stars

I THOUGHT of the day at Rockingham Park when a man sought me out in the publicity office.

"I wish you would write a story about my boy," he said. "He is flying a bomber over Germany, and he has just written to me saying how much he misses seeing horse races. My boy, who is a captain in the air corps, was brought up around race tracks."

"I don't want you to mention my name in the story. I used to be a doctor and I lost my health. It looked as if I only had a few years to live. I decided that if I worked at a race track I could prolong my life. I had been a country doctor and I did not have any funds. So I got a job caring for horses. I was up with the horses in the morning before the sun had poked its nose above the eastern horizon, and I was cooling the horses off at night long after the last person had left the track."

"I regained my health, and I was able to give my boy sufficient education so he was able to qualify for the air corps. He has done well, and, God willing, he will return to me. I would not like you to mention my name in the story or the fact I work at a track as some of the people I used to know when I was a doctor might think I had dropped out of the social ladder. They do not know that I am associating with many hard working men, and that we gain health and happiness around racing. I have found that health and happiness are more important than riches and social standing."

"I have been walking a horse whom you are going to hear from one of these days. He is one of the finest horses I have ever seen. His name is Texas Sandman. You watch him."

I wrote the story about the young flier and I have never revealed the name of his proud dad. I thought of both of them frequently last season when Texas Sandman won at New England tracks, and I had the recent Santa Anita Derby. Texas Sandman ran second to Thumbs Up. The old country doctor and his son must have been very happy.

Teams Bunched In Park League

With the league well along in its final quarter, the seven Park League teams continue to snarl themselves up in the league standings with none of the seven teams more than a game-and-a-half behind each other.

The second-place Navy Yarders managed to clip a half-game from the lead the Casey Club held over them in first place last week and locate themselves now at the American Legion Playground in East Boston while Barry Playground in Charlestown, their home field is undergoing repairs.

The Linehan Club managed to cling to third place while losing a brace of games this week. The McCarthy Club is hard on the heels of the Linehans with but one point less in the standings.

TONIGHT—Crosby vs. McCarthy Club at Lee Playground; Routledge vs. Navy Yard at American Legion Playground; Hicks vs. Casey Club at Town Field.

Rejuvenated Nats On Heels of Tigers

WASHINGTON, July 16 (AP)—This may be the week that Washington's amazing Senators take over the American League.

Only a game and a half off the pace now, the Senators will have an excellent opportunity through Friday to pass the leading Detroit Tigers.

Manager Ossie Bluege's rejuvenated wondens met the seventh-place St. Louis Browns today and tomorrow, then fight it out with the Tigers here Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

And why the "amazing" Senators? Well, no one expected them to go anywhere when the season started. Most of the experts picked them to run last.

Six weeks ago they were making the experts look good. Then strange things began to happen.

Harl and Cliff, veteran third sackers hampered with an old shouter injury, began to hit the long ball which made him feared around the league in pre-war days.

George Case, five times the league's base-stealing champion, set out after the batting chamampionship, and others who had been patty-caking the ball also caught the fever.

The Nats mopped up in a western road trip and won 15 of their last 24 games.

Now they believe in themselves. . . And they've got the nation's capital by its ears as the "pitching and runningest" team in the loop.

Even owner Clark Griffith, who at 75 should know a pennant-containing when he sees one, is talking about winning the flag.

"This club is a lot like our 1924 team," he said. "It's got speed, a lot of good pitching. And it's coming from behind just as we did 21 years ago."

That 1924 club went west in sixth place, came home in the second spot—like this year's team—then swept a four-game series with the Yankees in New York and never relinquished the lead.
